This index was created from the digitized microfilm reels of the original Deed Record books held at the Overton County Courthouse in Tennessee. These digitized images were found at <https://www.familysearch.org/search/catalog/231724>

Source Information:

Overton County, Tennessee, Register of Deeds. 20 microfilm reels; 35 mm. Filmed by the TN State Library and Archives. Digitized on familysearch.org

The following information was found recorded in the Deed books of Overton County, Tennessee as Bills of Sale. I have recorded names and some details as they were written. Please refer to the original document, its microfilmed or digitized format for all verification of facts. Any omissions were strictly accidental.

*Note: Books A-E on the microfilm/digitization have been transcribed from the originals due to damage.

All names from the bill of sale are included. In the case of a gift, I have included the relationship of the "purchaser" to the slave holder if stated. Also mentioned are the administrators as well as the deceased of whom the estate they are administering. The administrator will be the one listed as the "grantor" in the index and the sidebar. The deceased would have been the owner and it is the owner through whom you want to trace the enslaved person.

There were also instances of an heir selling their interest to the enslaved person. These were shared with the other heirs; usually their siblings. These may be helpful in learning who they did not go to, and where they may have originated.

There are also a few Mortgage Deeds or Deeds of Trust for Enslaved Persons. These are a little more difficult to decipher. It was not always clear where they may have ended up. It seems that the "purchaser" would not always own the persons mentioned, but rather they would end up at Sale to pay back the debt.

I did catch a few enslaved persons who were mortgaged along with tracts of land. I did not catch all of these, as I was generally searching for Bills of Sale.

The Bills of Sale, Mortgage Deeds, and Deeds of Trust are listed in the order they are recorded in the Deed Books, and many of them are not in chronological order. Please refer to the date of sale.

When using this pdf, you can use the Find feature to quickly search for names. Some names might not be spelled the way one might think, as some are spelled phonetically or how they sounded to whomever wrote the document. Trying many different spellings of your ancestor's name can help you find them in the listing. I listed them according to my interpretation of the handwriting and did not correct them.

My hope is that this index will help someone connect to their ancestors and learn a little more about their lives in Overton County, Tennessee.
